Gallagher, President; Daniel J. Brady, First Vice-President; Michael J. O'Brien, Second Vice-President; Frank N. Unangst, Secretary; William. A. Apgar, Treasurer. One hundred signatures were obtained to the membership roll. The following delegates were chosen to represent the club at the State Convention of Democratic Clubs to be held at Trenton on the 22d inst: Joseph D. Gallagher, Daniel J. Brady, William A. Apgar, Frank N. Unangst and George A. Michell. The meeting was presided over by William A. Apgar. Messrs. E. A. Raynor and Daniel J. Brady delivered brief addresses. Application has been made to the State Committee for speakers on the occasion of the banner raising which takes place on the 29th. Efforts will be made to obtain Senator Brecken bridge of Kentucky, on that evening.

Spragg's Pavilion.

Another large Gospel Meeting was held on last Monday evening. Ben Hogan preached a sermon on Blind Men. He took for his text the story of Blind Bartimeus. His remarks were listened to with great attention throughout and no doubt were productive of good. Next Monday evening, John McCormack, native of County Longford, Ireland, and now laboring as a missionary among the seamen in New York Harbor, will address the meeting. Robert Piercy, the singing blacksmith, will be present and sing. All are cordially invited.

Campaign Notes.

The colored Republicans of the Oranges held a mass meeting on Monday evening in the Park Rink. It was called to order by Henry M. Doremus, chairman of the county committee. Henry Ballard was chosen chairman, Nicholas Smackem, secretary, and William Ellis assistant secretary, Joseph Wells made a stirring speech, after which the meeting proceeded to ballot for an additional member of the county committee, and James N. Vandervall was chosen. William Brewer of Orange followed with an able address.

Mr. Daniel A. Dugan of Orange has issued the prospectus of the new weekly paper which he will begin to publish in that city on the first of September. It will be in every sense of the word a newspaper, and will give particular attention to everything that interests the people of the Oranges. Local news will at all times have precedence, and the needs of citizens will be set forth in the best possible style. Politically the newspaper will be Democratic, but it will not be controlled or run by a leader or faction. Pure Democracy will be preached and everybody receive fair play.

The re-election of Wilbur A. Mott to the presidency of the New Jersey Republican State League gives universal satisfaction throughout the State among Republicans. Mr. Mott is recognized as one of the most able and efficient workers in the party.

A determined effort is being made by Democratic leaders in Bloomfield to convert prominent Republicans to their way of thinking. The "Tariff Reformer," a Democratic campaign document is being persistently mailed to recognized stalwarts. Our Democratic friends would do well to expend their money on more pliable stuff.

Wallack's Theatre.

"Prince Methusalem" will be given for the last performances at the matinee and evening of Saturday, Aug. 18th, after which this bright and pretty opera will be withdrawn to make room for the production of "Lorraine," which Col. McCaull has been anxious to give for some time but, until now, the opportunity has never offered. However, on Monday, Aug. 20, it will be produced, with great promise of success, particularly as it is to be mounted even more gorgeously than anything that has preceded it, both in the scenery and in the costumes. The opera possesses merits far in advance of the usual works of this class, including music that is simply beautiful, together with an interesting story and abundance of fun that constantly crops out, keeping the risibilities of the audience in almost constant agitation.

THE OLD FLAG

Given to the Breeze in Bloomfield.

Harrison, Morton and American Industry.

Toryism and Bogus-Reform Democracy

WEIGHED IN THE BALANCES.

The flag.
The band.
The cannon.
The fireworks.
The presence of the ladies.
The throng of interested voters.
And last—bound to be heard, and first to "get there"—the boys.

A happy combination of the above indispensable elements combined to make the raising of a campaign banner by the Bloomfield Republican Club on Tuesday evening a grand success.

Early in the evening a big crowd gathered at the Centre, where during the day tall poles had been erected on the sidewalks of Glenwood and Washington avenues. Upon lines stretched from pole to pole a fine twenty-five-foot flag was run out. It floated gracefully on the breeze, bearing at its lower edge the names of "Harrison and Morton," with the Republican motto—"Protection to American Industry."

The launching of the flag was immediately followed by a salute fired beneath it by the Republican Battery, with music by the Watsessing Band, and the setting off of rockets and other fireworks. In the midst of this, Dr. Harry E. Richards mounted a wagon that stood close by, and made a short address, calling attention to the circumstance that the Republicans had appropriated the American flag as their campaign emblem, which had been objected to by some Democrats, as many of them did when the same thing was done in the beginning of the party's career. He closed by cordially inviting the people to follow the band to Dodd's Hall, where they would be treated to a collation of good Republican doctrine.

The band led the way, a great crowd followed quickly and the hall was soon packed. Here the busy hands of the decorating committee had been engaged, and the room was completely draped with red, white and blue bunting, mottoes, pictures and miniature flags all tastefully arranged. The effect was at once striking and pleasing to the eye, calling forth admiration and praise, especially from the ladies, who were out in large numbers.

The Campaign Glee Club opened the meeting in the hall with the singing of "America," which was heartily joined in by the audience. Vice-President Ward introduced Mr. Halsey M. Barrett, who made a brief but stirring address, full of patriotic fervor. He called upon Americans and all who loved American institutions to arouse and rebuke the intrigues of British sympathizers, British capitalists and British influence seeking to break down the American principle of protection to home industry. Mr. Barrett's speech elicited loud applause, and at its conclusion he introduced the speaker of the evening, Senator Wm. D. Foulke, a former resident of Bloomfield but now of Indiana, and a gentleman who was well acquainted with the Republican nominee for President.

Mr. Foulke, in referring to this fact in his opening remarks, spoke in terms of highest praise of the personal character of Benjamin Harrison and of the great esteem with which he is regarded in his own city of Indianapolis, and his own State of Indiana. The voice of calumny had never been raised against him. Vituperation never had selected him for a victim, and he stood before the people of the United States with his personal character untarnished. A series of striking contrasts were drawn between the Republican nominee and Grover Cleveland, much to the disparagement of the latter, not however by the skillful artifices of campaign oratory, but by a calm presentation of facts known to every intelligent voter in the country. Grover Cleveland's ludicrous position: posing as a candidate for re-election, despite his positive declarations in favor of a single term, was handled by Mr. Foulke in a manner that carried conviction as well as amused his hearers.

A startling array of facts was presented in condemnation of the President's claim to be a reformer of the civil service. The minute details, connected with cases of removals from office in violation of Grover Cleveland's civil service reform declarations, with which the speaker backed up his assertions, convinced his hearers that he was a man possessing positive knowledge of the subject.

The fidelity of the Mohammedans to the fundamental principle of their religion was used to illustrate the Mugwump's fidelity to their idol—Grover Cleveland—in spite of his shortcomings. The insults to American dignity and the degradation of our country by the incompetent management of the office of Secretary of State under the present administration was eloquently rebuked. The high-handed arrogance in dealing with the weak sister Republic of Mexico in the celebrated Cutting case, and the submissive yielding to the dictations of the great powers, Russia and Great Britain, in recent treaty negotiations, was portrayed in language so effective that American blood waxed hot. And an appeal to a picture of Gen. Harrison, that adorned the wall, as representing a man who would maintain the dignity and honor of America under all circumstances, elicited a wild tumult of applause.

The diplomatic blunders of Secretary Bayard in the appointment of ministers to foreign courts were referred to as making us the laughing stock of the world.

Grover Cleveland's appointments to the bench of the Supreme Court of the United States, said the speaker, has lowered that high tribunal in the estimation of good men.

The corrupt usages made of the Department of Justice in the famous telephone suits furnished material for showing up that department in light not at all creditable to the present incumbent of the presidential chair.

A disgraceful condition of affairs was shown to exist in the Department of the Interior in the management of Indian Affairs.

Senator Foulke's speech was considered a masterly arraignment of the present administration not alone on general principles but in particular facts. His arguments carried the weight of conviction with them. The address was one that will have no small effect in helping along the rousing majority sure to be given in this town for Harrison and Morton and the American principle of protection to home industries.

Whereas, Commissioners duly appointed on the part of the state of New York and commissioners duly appointed on the part of the state of New Jersey, for the purpose of locating and marking out by proper buoys the boundary line between the two states in lands under the water of Raritan bay, have executed certain articles, two copies for each state, which are contained in the following words:

An agreement, made the twelfth day of October, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, between Mayo W. Hazeltine, Robert Moore and Lieutenant G. C. Hanus, U. S. N., commissioners on the part of the state of New York, and George H. Cooke, Robert C. Bacot and A. B. Stoney commissioners on the part of the state of New Jersey:

Whereas, By chapter sixty-nine of the laws of the state of New York for the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, the governor was authorized to appoint three commissioners on the part of the state of New York, with full power to meet with the commissioners duly authorized on the part of the state of New Jersey, and with them locate and mark out by proper monuments and buoys the true boundary line between the two states in lands under water in Raritan bay; and

Whereas, The said Mayo W. Hazeltine, Robert Moore and Lieutenant G. C. Hanus, U. S. N., were duly appointed commissioners on the part of the state of New York, for the purposes mentioned in the said act; and

Whereas, By an act of legislature of the state of New Jersey, passed April twentieth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, entitled "A joint resolution authorizing the appointment of a commission to locate and mark out the boundary line between the state of New Jersey and the state of New York in Raritan bay," the governor of the state of New Jersey was authorized to appoint three commissioners, with power on the part of the state to meet any authorities duly authorized on the part of the state of New York, and with them locate by proper buoys the boundary line between the two states of lands under water in Raritan bay; and

Whereas, The said George H. Cook, Robert C. Bacot and A. B. Stoney were duly appointed commissioners for the purposes of said act; and

Whereas, The said commissioners, acting for and on behalf of their respective states, have entered upon the performance of the duties imposed on them by said act, and have, in pursuance thereof, agreed upon and duly executed a boundary line between the two states in lands under water in Raritan bay, and locate the same, as follows:

First. From the "Great Beds light-house" in Raritan bay, north, twenty degrees and sixteen minutes west, true, to a point in the middle of the waters of Arthur Kill or Staten Island sound, equi-distant between the south-westerly corner of the dwelling-house of David C. Butler, at Ward's Point, on Staten Island, in the state of New York, and the southeasterly corner of the brick building on the lands of Cortlandt L. Parker, at the intersection of the westerly line of Water street with the northerly line of Lewis street, in Perth Amboy, in the state of New Jersey;

Second. From "Great Beds light house" south, sixty-four degrees and twenty-one minutes east, true, in line with the centre of Waackaack or Wilson's beacon, in Monmouth county, New Jersey, to a point at the intersection of said line with the connecting "Morgan number two" triangulation point, United States coast and geodetic survey, in Middlesex county, New Jersey, with the granite and iron beacon marked on the accompanying map as "Romer stone beacon," situated on the "Dry Romer shoal;" and thence on a line bearing north, seventy-seven degrees and nine minutes east, true, connecting "Morgan number two" triangulation point, United States coast and geodetic survey, in Middlesex county, New Jersey, with said Romer stone beacon (the line passing through said beacon and continuing in the same direction), to a point at its intersection with a line drawn between the "Hook Beacon," on Sandy Hook, New Jersey, and the triangulation point of the United States geodetic survey, known as the Oriental hotel, on Coney Island, New York; thence southeasterly, at right angles with the last-mentioned line, to the main sea;

Third. The monumental marks by which said boundary line shall be hereafter known and recognized are hereby declared to be as follows:

I. The "Great Beds light-house;"

II. A permanent monument marked "state boundary line New York and New Jersey," and to be placed at the intersection of the line drawn from the "Great Beds light-house" to "Waackaack or Wilson's beacon," Monmouth county, New Jersey, and the line drawn from "Morgan's number two" triangulation point, United States coast and geodetic survey, in Middlesex county, New Jersey, to the "Romer stone beacon;"

III. Eight buoys or spindles, to be marked like the permanent monuments above mentioned and placed at suitable intervening points along the line from the said permanent monument to the "Romer stone beacon;"

IV. The Romer stone beacon;

Fourth. The maps accompanying and filed with this agreement, showing the location of the above described boundary line between the state of New York and the state of New Jersey in Raritan bay to the main sea, and the monumental marks by which it is marked, and to be marked, duly authenticated and attested by the signatures of the said commissioners, and placed on file in the offices of the secretaries of state of the respective states, shall constitute the permanent and authentic records of said boundary line, and are hereby adopted by the parties thereto and made a part of this agreement.

In witness whereof, the said commissioners have hereto set their hands and seals in duplicate, this twelfth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

PURE JERSEY or ALDERNEY MILK,
IN GLASS BOTTLES!
PURE JERSEY or ALDERNEY MILK in QUART GLASS BOTTLES will be delivered by me, and the patronage of the public is solicited.
The Milk offered is warranted perfectly pure, and is from imported Jersey Cattle.
The Cattle are fed on the BEST of hay and feed, no feed being allowed them that would impair the healthfulness of the Milk.
The stables and cattle are kept in the most perfect manner as to Cleanliness and Ventilation—a most important factor if healthy milk is desired. As a table article and beverage it recommends itself, showing a larger percentage of cream than any other Milk sold. For invalids and children it is recommended by all physicians.
MILK IN GLASS HAS THE FOLLOWING ADVANTAGES:
1st. It is more cleanly not being exposed to odors and contamination, to blowing dust and dirt, to the rain, to the drip and dirt from the reins or hands of the driver.
2d. Its quality may be seen at a glance by the cream at the top, and the color of the milk.
3d. It will keep sweet longer, because in delivering there is no churning (each bottle being filled to the stopper,) and the bottles are kept iced in warm weather until delivered.
4th. Its flavor is better, because the air has no chance to act upon it, and because it is absolutely free from the metallic flavor often noticed in milk transported in tin.
Parties wishing to be served can call at farm in Bloomfield, or send postal to
